Newsletter December 2010

Greetings!

What a year this has been and an exhausting one at that! We are doing everything we can to make sure your preparation for next year is minimal so you can really just put your feet up and relax these holidays.

Lesson Plans 2011

As you will notice, the workbooks have been updated and are CAPS compliant. A few topics had to be added e.g. Government as consumer and producer, Standards of living, Types of markets (Oligopoly etc) Changes in supply and demand, the role of woman in trade unions, types of industries e.g. sustainable use of resources, the eight functions of business, break even point... Whew!

I had to update the lesson plans and you can now download them from our website www.wamark.co.za

Educator Guides

They are still in the making... I will deliver them the day before school starts along with the Work Schedules and Learning Programmes.

However, I am happy to deliver the educator guides to one home address per school on the 3rd of January 2011. Fill in and fax the form on the next page to 086 611 3855

Educator Guide updates

In keeping with the theme of sustainable use of resources, the updated Educator guides will not include new transparencies. Please will you do your bit for the environment and recycle the 2010 transparencies you have by adding the changes manually? (if any) We will still print a copy of the updated educator guides for you to work from.

Our new schools will receive all the new transparencies.

NEW! PowerPoint presentations

I had such fun designing these and I hope you enjoy them. The topics are Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs, Factors of Production and Economic systems. If you have trouble using PowerPoint, give me a call and I will talk you through the process. I have also included the slides on transparencies for your convenience.

Entrepreneur of the Year 2010

What an amazing response! It took me a while to get through all the applicants. It was an awful decision to make. The entrepreneurs out did themselves. Well done to you their wonderful teachers. The winning business plan belongs to Gabriella Branco from Edenvale High School. Congratulations to Mrs Labuschagne. Your laptops will be handed over by me personally in an assembly early next year.

A special mention must go to Malia Hutchison of Crawford College Northcoast for her outstanding effort. She and her teacher Ms Kenton will each receive a R500 Woolies voucher.

NEW! Facebook Group

EMS 911 – Wamark Publishers

We have extended an invitation to all your learners (found on the inside covers of their workbooks) to join our new Facebook group. Our aim is to be an additional source of guidance for your babies. Please don't worry about us giving them any answers. That would be totally unprofessional and I will report any learner/parent trying to elicit the answers!

You are most welcome to also visit me in cyberspace ☺ Your input and support would be fantastic.

Enjoy your woollies, shortbread biscuits! (TOTALLY ADDICTIVE!)

Merry regards,

Yvette
